Singer-Songwriter Dar Williams in Concert Benefit Event for Health Center's Women's Health and Teen Services

Mahspee – It has been more than a year since Dar Williams has played on Cape Cod, and now, the popular singer/songwriter is coming to Mashpee. Ms. Williams will perform a benefit concert for Community Health Center of Cape Cod's women's health services and teen clinic on Saturday, April 4 at Mashpee High School. These programs provide affordable health and gynecological services as well as education and counseling for women and teens.

Ms. Williams is known for her energy and emotional, clear-as-a-bell voice. Her songwriting themes are broad and wide-ranging, covering politics, religion, sexuality, and family, yet her songs are deeply personal, reflecting her life experiences and bond with social and environmental causes. "I think my art is about trying to find the stories that make us feel connected," she says.

Ms. Williams released her first album in 1993. She began playing the northeast singer/songwriter circuit in the early 1990s and toured with Joan Baez, who recorded several of her songs. Promised Land, her ninth album, was released in July 2008.

A resident of upstate New York, she is involved in many local projects, including community gardening, renewable energy, food projects and arts projects for children. She has also authored two children's books.

The concert will take place at 8 PM on Saturday, April 4, at Mashpee High School, 500 Old Barnstable Road. Tickets for the concert are $25. They are available at Kemp Pottery in Orleans, Eight Cousins Bookstore in Falmouth, Puritan of Cape Cod stores, Coffee Obsession in Falmouth and Woods Hole, and at Community Health Center of Cape Cod at 210 Jones Road, Suite 22, in Homeport in Falmouth or 123 Waterhouse Road in Bourne. Tickets will also be available at the door.

For more information about the concert, call Megan Luizzi at 508-540-2949.
